

The Benefits of Senior Care at Home

In most cases providing care at home for the elderly is the best option for the entire family. Having an in-home companion enables the elder to receive care in the comfort of their own home, maintain independence and remain in their community. Their care is personal/one-on-one as opposed to a nursing home setting that typically has one attendant responsible for at least eight patients. The family is relieved of continuing worry, knowing that their loved one is safe and well cared for.

city home companion understands what makes senior home care work. We work by referral only, never advertising for caregivers. This guarantees superior quality, professionalism and compassion. CHC remains involved on an ongoing basis; the lines of communication are always open.

If you have a family member in the NYC metropolitan area in need of companion care, please give us a call at 646-278-9942 so that we can arrange an initial in-home consultation at no cost.
